

NET INCOME BLUEPRINT

Net Income Blueprint
Earning a Living Online:
The Keys to Online
Success

S No	Table Of Contents	Page No
01	Introduction	4
02	Can You Really Make Money Online	7
03	Method 1: Writing	8
	Articles for Associated Content	8
	Articles for Businesses	11
	Ghostwriting	14
	Writing an e-Book	16
04	Method 2: Freelancing	19
05	Method 3: Selling Your Own Products	24
	E-Bay	24
	Tradebit	26
06	Method 4: Marketing	30
	Affiliate Marketing	30
	Other Forms of Marketing	34
07	Method 5: Blog Posts	35
08	Tips to Help You Make the Most Out Of Online Work	37
	Identity Theft	38
	Ensuring Payment	39
09	Too Good To Be True?	43
10	Making Sure You Have the Right Mindset	48
11	Closing	50

Introduction:

You might have seen countless advertisements claiming that they can show you how to make millions of dollars on the internet.

Like most of us, you probably dismissed all of these advertisements as being nothing more than a hoax trying to get your money.

I will not pretend that I am going to teach you how to make millions of dollars on the internet, but I am going to show you that it is possible to make a reasonable amount of money on the internet.

Now, I know what you are thinking. How can anyone make money on the internet, especially me? Well, it is easier than you might think.

There are many different kinds of methods out there, each of which can help towards providing you with extra cash.

Who knows, with a little bit of time and effort to become a master of these methods, you might even find yourself able to completely support yourself simply from the work that you do online!

It isn't necessarily a walk in the park to make money online, but it also isn't so difficult that you won't be able to manage it.

I will help you by providing you with information concerning a variety of different methods and explaining how each and every one can be used in order to work best for you.

You might not believe me. Trust me, if I was in your position a few years ago, I probably would not have believed me either!

But over the years, I have tried and tested all of these methods and have found that each and every one of them can work. Now, I am able to completely support myself by working online.

And you might still just be wondering, "Why should I even bother trying to make money online?" Some people do not recognize the potential advantages that working online can provide them with.

Instead of being trapped by your location, you will be able to look for jobs from across the world. This almost assures you that there will be some job open for you, somewhere on the internet!

Best of all, you might find that you are able to find much higher paying jobs online than you would be in your area. And if all of that isn't enough for you, just think about how much money you could save on gas if you were able to work online for all of your money!

So get ready to take a walk down a path that may be able to help you gain a greater financial freedom.

Can You Really Make Money Online?

You would not believe how many people do not understand how much money there is to be made on the internet.

I am not talking about just for those tech people who have years and years of experience doing everything you could imagine (and more!) on a computer.

No, there is money out there waiting for the average Joe to come around and take advantage of.

There are even skills other than computer programming that can help you if you are seeking to make money online. While being great at computer programming is a big plus, being skilled at writing or graphic design can also be a major way to help yourself in your goal to make money online.

But even if you are not good at any of these things, do not fret. There are plenty of ways to make money online, without requiring that you possess any of these skills.

Who knows, after reading these methods, you might discover that you have a skill you did not know about before!

Method 1: Writing

Articles for Associated Content:

Now, there are plenty of different ways that you can make money online by writing. The first of these methods is probably a good starting place for anyone seeking to make money online.

Associated Content is a website where you can submit articles, stories, or even poems that you write and have them published on the website. This can help build up your internet name, helping to showcase your skills to others.

But another bright side of publishing your articles by Associated Content is their payment system.

They have two different types of payment: upfront payment and performance payment only.

The best way to start out would definitely be to try submitting articles for performance payment only. This way, you can help to raise your clout level.

This can definitely be a great way for helping to ensure that future works you submit for upfront payment are accepted. If you write articles that do well for performance payment only, then you are helping to show Associated Content that investing in your writing is a sound business move.

Performance payment only works by paying you a certain amount per one thousand page views of your article. This method means that, the more people that read your article, the more money you will be paid.

This can definitely be a hit-or-miss endeavor, and even if it does work out, you will probably not see very much money from it at first.

It takes time to build up a good following, people who want to read your articles every time they are released. One method that can help you immensely is to provide links to your older articles when you are writing a newer one.

This can help to increase your number of page views for other articles, increasing your overall payment.

Of course, be wary of doing this too often, as people often get discouraged when they see that the majority of the page is blue hyperlinks!

Performance payment only can be a great way to build up your clout. As your clout level increases, so does your performance payment, helping to raise the amount of money that you make every one thousand page views.

In addition, this helps to show Associated Content that giving you an upfront payment on your writings is a sound investment.

An upfront payment works by paying you a certain amount of money upfront for your article. This way, you do not have to wait an extended period of time before you find yourself making money from your articles.

You will be able to receive an upfront payment for simply having your article published on Associated Content, guaranteeing that you make money from it.

But do not expect to be able to receive upfront payments for your writings from the start. It takes time, building up clout, before you will find yourself able to receive upfront payment for articles.

Associated Content has to see that people are reading your articles and that you are someone they should invest in, before they will be willing to give you an upfront payment.

So if you submit an article for upfront payment and it is rejected, do not be discouraged. This may have nothing to do with your writing itself. Wait for a while; work to get more page views on your articles, and then try again.

Articles for Businesses:

While writing for Associated Content is definitely a great way to help build your online presence and make cash in the process, there are other ways that you can make money from writing.

Many businesses are constantly seeking writers to work for them, providing their website with a variety of articles.

Now, some of these businesses may simply want you to write informative articles on subjects. If this is the case, then often all you will have to do is research and write on the subject. This can definitely be a great way to make an extra buck.

There are some websites that you can put in your application for doing a certain amount of article writing per month.

This can definitely be advantageous, as it helps to provide you with work that fits your needs and wants.

If you are only looking to make a few extra dollars, then you can choose a small number of articles to write, whereas if you are looking to make a reasonable income from it, you can choose to write more articles. Love To Know is an excellent website for this, with many talented writers already working at producing the wonderful content that fills this site.

So if you are looking for a fairly reliable job at writing, whether to bring in a little extra or to bring in a more significant amount, websites like these are definitely a good place to start looking.

But sometimes, you may be required to do a little bit of what is known as SEO writing. SEO stands for Search Engine Optimization.

This type of writing is geared towards helping to draw search engines to the website. When you enter a search into a search engine, it searches through a list of websites that it has, searching for the best result.

The "best result" has to contain the keyword a reasonably high number of times. In the past, search engines could be fooled by a simply page that would list the same word over and over and over again.

Now, however, search engines look for a certain level of frequency of the word.

Learning to do SEO writing is not hard. There are programs out there that can help to show you the frequency of a specific keyword in your article.

This can help you learn to get the flow of doing SEO writing, helping you to have a good idea of how often a certain keyword should appear.

There are many websites out there that can help to explain the art of SEO writing more in depth, and if you are interested in learning more, it is definitely a good skill to learn. By learning SEO writing, you will be able to market your skills to a more varied audience.

Nearly all websites that exist, at one time or another, looked for talented SEO writers in order to help build up their website.

Some of the most successful websites currently on the internet are also the ones that use constant SEO updating to help draw people into their website.

There are various ways you can find work writing articles for businesses. One of the best ways is to look for what are known as freelance writing websites.

These are websites that provide freelance writers with the ability to find businesses looking for writers, and vice versa, so that they can work together, either for a short project or for a long-term relationship.

These websites help to give you another foundation for supplying yourself with a good revenue stream from your online work.

Freelance writing websites might also lead you to another type of writing opportunity, known as ghostwriting.

Ghostwriting:

What is ghostwriting? No, it does not involve ghosts or the like. Instead, let's say that you wanted to write a book, but you either were not capable of doing the writing or simply could not find the time to do it.

So, you can collect your notes on the subject and hire a ghostwriter.

Your ghostwriter would then use your notes and, under careful direction from you, would produce the book that you have always wanted.

Afterwards, the book could be published in your name, as ghostwriters also sell the rights and credit of the book to the person hiring them.

So what are some of the advantages of being a ghostwriter? Well, you do not have to use any creative thinking in order to develop the idea -- that will be provided for you.

Also, you do not have to take a gamble on how much money the story will make. Ghostwriters are often paid in a lump sum by the author.

This helps to ensure that, even if the writing does not sell well, you will still be paid for the work you did. This can be very enticing for a ghostwriter, as it ensures that you will make a certain amount of money, regardless of how well the work sells.

However, you may also work for a combination of lump sum and percentage of royalties. And in some rare cases, you might work fully for a large percentage of royalties, without any sort of lump sum payment.

These are, of course, extreme cases, and are certainly up to you and the individual or business you are writing for.

Keep in mind; ghostwriting is not necessarily exclusively for books. In fact, much of the writing you will do online may be considered ghostwriting.

Even writing for businesses often has the effect of selling all rights to the published work to the business hiring you. While this may be advantageous in some respects, it can also be quite a nuisance. It is hard to build up your internet writing presence when everything you write is stripped of your name!

Writing an e-Book:

If you are looking to put some investment which may or may not provide an immediate return, then writing an e-Book can definitely provide you with a way to fill your time and potentially bring in extra cash.

Of course, I would not recommend you attempt to use this as your primary method of bringing in money. It serves well as a way to fill in your time and to potentially bring in a little extra cash.

The best way to use an e-Book to make money is to find someone who is looking to purchase an e-Book of a certain type, then sell yours to them.

However, this often has the drawback of resulting in you selling the rights to the e-Book to them, as well. If you are looking to keep your name on the e-Book while still managing to make some money, then you should be prepared to negotiate or to sell your e-Book on your own terms. There are many different ways you can choose to sell your e-Book. You can definitely wait to find a potential customer who is looking to buy and publish an e-Book of a certain type and negotiate to keep your rights to it.

This may take time and a little bit of searching on your part, but it is often a good way to bring in some more money.

Another way is to go out on your own, checking with various websites, and try to find a place to sell and market your e-Book.

There are many different ways to do this. Refer to Method 3: Tradebit for a potential way of selling your e-Book.

But remember, no matter how you go about trying to sell it, marketing is definitely one of the main issues! If no one knows about your e-Book, then no one is going to buy it!

If you are looking for the best of both worlds, you should definitely try both publishing on Associated Content and using one of the other methods.

This can help to provide you with a good stream of cash, while still allowing you to build up your internet presence.

That way, in the future, you will find yourself able to charge more for certain jobs, and even get jobs that you had not ever dreamed you could!

Method 2: Freelancing

Now, you might be saying that writing is not your thing. If so, then there are definitely other ways that you can make money online. However, even if writing is still your choice, reading this section can help you out, too.

Freelancing is a term that can be applied to any number of different types of jobs. What all of these jobs, online at least, have in common is that you will often find yourself working for a different person or persons for each project.

Now what exactly is a project?

When you work as a freelancer, your job life consists of bidding on various projects that a person or persons put up. If your bid wins, then you complete the project under the terms specified and you are paid the amount that was agreed upon.

Now you might be thinking, "How does that make me any money? They would always take the lowest bid!" This is not necessarily true.

As you and I know, just because something is cheaper doesn't necessarily mean that it is better. The people that hire freelancers are well aware of this, too, and they will not necessarily hire under the "lowest bid wins" idea.

Instead, they will try to find the highest quality for the best price. If you show that you are of a significantly high enough quality, then you will find that you will be able to make higher bids and win.

This can be definitely advantageous for you, as it means that you might find yourself able to charge more the more work that you do.

So do not get discouraged if the first few jobs you get through freelancing are lower paying than you might prefer. We often have to work our way from the bottom to the top in order to make the most out of things.

Freelancing sites host to a variety of different job seekers. In fact, it would be impossible to list the full number of jobs that can become available on freelance job sites.

I will try instead to make a short list of some of the more common types of jobs that you might encounter by looking on freelance job sites.

1) (SEO) Article Writing: Article writing is definitely still one of the most common types of work that you will find on freelance job sites.

This is simply due to the sheer mass of money there is to be made from SEO and general article writing. This is a business that seems like it will last as long as the internet.

2) Computer Programming: When I said that computer programming was definitely one of the big ways of making money online, I wasn't lying.

Freelance job sites exist that cater directly towards those individuals who are skilled in the art of computer programming.

Whether you are skilled in website design or making the back-end for a website, you will likely find yourself swimming in a sea of potential jobs every time you log on to these freelance job sites.

3) Data Entry: Are you able to type extremely fast? If so, then you might be able to take advantage of the data entry jobs that become available through freelance sites.

Some of these jobs have the disadvantage of requiring that you be a part of a team of typists, but some do not. Data Entry work often consists of typing specific information into a spreadsheet, in order to help provide an organized way for the buyer to use the information.

Other types of data entry work involve solving captchas, the little pictures of words that websites often use.

4) Graphic Design: Graphic design jobs that you can find on freelance job sites can range from someone simply wanting you to use PhotoShop to edit a few pictures, to a business wanting you to create a logo or banner for them to use.

It can even involve making a visual design for a website, so that programmers can use your design to build the website from. There is almost no end to the variety of different types of jobs in graphic design that you will be able to find on freelance job sites.

While there are definitely plenty of other jobs that will come up on freelance job sites, this general list covered most of the more common ones.

You would be surprised at the number of projects that come up each and every day. There are some freelance websites that have hundreds or even thousands of projects added each and every day.

These projects are sometimes short term, but there are many such projects that help to build long-term relationships with certain individuals or businesses, helping to ensure your ability to win future projects.

Another thing to remember is that many of these freelance job sites are peer reviewed.

What this means for you is that, if you provide the buyer with high quality work, he or she will often give you a positive review, which helps to ensure that you will be able to get more work in the future.

However, the reverse is true as well. Remember, if you accept a project, you should work on it and try to provide your best.

Method 3: Selling Your Own Products

One of the most effective ways to make money online does not even require that you do any real work yourself. If you have things lying around, you might find that you will be able to make some money off of it.

Or, you might have made some sort of product on your own which you wish to market and sell. These products can be almost any sort of thing!

The beauty of the internet is that, no matter what it is you have to sell; there is almost always someone out there who will buy it.

E-Bay:

E-Bay is definitely one of the most popular, and one of the most effective, ways to make money by selling items online.

Whether you have an attic full of baseball cards that you are looking to sell, or if you are just trying to sell your own product, you may find a great advantage in using e-Bay to sell your item.

Say for instance that you have a band. Your band might produce CD's and seek to sell them to all of your fans who are looking to buy your music.

By setting up an e-Bay account, you can help to provide your fans with a way to buy your music directly from you, with limited hassle.

There is almost nothing that you cannot sell on e-Bay. If you have an item that you want to sell, this is definitely one of the best places to sell it.

But what if you are looking to sell something digital? What if, in addition to selling your CD's, you want to sell your MP3's to individuals online?

E-Bay will often be your downfall there, as they tend to insist that there be a physical exchange of goods. But you are in luck.

Tradebit:

Tradebit is a website which aims to provide you with a method of selling your digital items without requiring the exchange of physical goods.

This means that you can take your band's music and sell it online in the form of MP3's. There are countless advantages to this type of selling.

Perhaps the most obvious advantage is the fact that you no longer have to spend money on shipping and handling in order to get your CD's (or other items) to your customers.

While in some cases this may not seem like it takes such a financial toll, in the long run, you can definitely see the numbers add up!

If you sell a large number of items online, you definitely are aware of the large amount of money that ends up going to the mere shipping and handling of the items.

Another advantage that might be a bit easier to overlook is the lower production cost. If you are selling CD's, then you must buy CD's, put your music on them, then ship them. But if you are looking to sell MP3's, all you have to do is produce the MP3 and put it up for sale!

This can help immensely towards lowering the amount of money that you waste on production of items. This is one of the main reasons why e-books have become such a popular method of publishing books.

Printing books takes a significant amount of money for each book printed. But for each e-book downloaded, the cost is almost nothing!

So you can definitely see the potential advantages to selling only digital copies of certain items.

Not only is it a benefit to you by raising the potential profits, but it is also a great benefit to your customers!

Without the high production costs accompanied with producing things like printed books and CD's, you are able to charge less for your book, meaning that the customer does not have to pay such a huge amount! Everybody ends up a winner!

Still, Tradebit is only for selling digital things. If you are looking to sell physical items, then e-Bay is definitely the way to go. But if you are seeking to make a significant amount of money from your online sales, then you might consider selling both forms, depending upon what exactly it is you are trying to sell.

If you are band, then you might consider selling CD's, but also selling MP3 versions of your songs. This can help to maximize the amount of money you can make by increasing your audience.

Remember, there are some people who will buy an MP3 online that wouldn't buy the CD, and vice versa.

Making money from selling items online is perhaps one of the most common ways of making money nowadays. Many people simply use it as a way to supplement their income.

But if you have the right things to sell, you can definitely use it as a platform for making a steady and consistent income. While using any one of these methods of making money can help to provide you with a good income, by combining these methods, you might find that you can make more money than you ever thought possible from working online!

For instance, if you are a writer that has been building your online presence using Associated Content, then you might consider making longer works, e-books for example, in order to make more money.

By using your articles that you publish on Associated Content as a stepping stone for your e-books, you can help to make producing an e-book not only viable, but financially brilliant!

Using Associated Content in conjunction with Tradebit, you can combine your online presence with the ability to sell digital information in order to make yourself even more money!

Remember that there are countless ways to combine these previous methods and the methods that I still have left to show you!

Who knows, by reading all of these methods, you might stumble upon a brilliant way of making money that I have not even thought of! With a little creativity and perseverance, you can accomplish almost anything!

Method 4: Marketing

Now, there are different types of marketing, each of which can help to bring in an extra buck. Some people even manage to make a full income off of just marketing, but I wouldn't get my hopes up if I were you.

Like many things, marketing can be a rather hit or miss business, especially if you are just looking to do some of it on the side, rather than to put the vast majority of your time and abilities into it.

Affiliate Marketing:

Affiliate marketing is definitely a great way to help bring in a little extra cash. There are many different websites that give rewards, both monetary and otherwise, to those customers who bring in other customers.

Most of us will probably just use affiliate marketing to make some extra cash, but there are some people who actually set out to use affiliate marketing to make a large portion of their income.

It definitely takes a lot of clever thinking and skill in order to make that possible, but it could be within your reach if you try!

Now, the first thing you should definitely decide on is what type of website you would like to do affiliate marketing for. There are many different kinds out there, and which one or ones you choose is up to you.

Even freelance job sites provide incentives for those who bring in new users to the site. This makes it a great way to combine doing freelance jobs and affiliate marketing to make even more money.

But what exactly is affiliate marketing? While different sites implement it in different ways, it basically consists of: you join the website, and then you get other people to join, too. You may get prizes or you may get cash.

Some websites may provide one payment of cash for bringing in a new customer, but other websites give you a percentage of all future payments as well!

This is one of the primary appeals of affiliate marketing -- if you manage to hook just three or four customers into a website, you can provide yourself with a steady stream of income from each!

There are many different ways you can use affiliate marketing. Which methods work best depend on what affiliate systems the websites offer.

Many websites nowadays provide you with an affiliate link, which you can use to allow others to sign up with you automatically set as the affiliate.

This way, you receive the credit for them signing up with the website. But just how do you manage to get people to use this link to sign up? Again, you have many different options when it comes to this.

Perhaps one of the most common ways is to use your personal website or blog to advertise your affiliate link. This can be quite helpful, but its actual helpfulness varies based on how many people view your website or your blog.

Another way to get people to use your affiliate link is to take advantage of combining methods previously used in this manual.

For example, using your articles published on Associated Content or other places in order to provide platforms for your affiliate links can also help you to reel in some more money.

And of course, you can always choose to combine all of these methods in order to maximize the number of potential customers you can reel in.

What exactly you do is completely up to you, and the sky is the limit. With a little creativity, there are almost no bounds to what you can do to help your affiliate marketing provide you with extra cash.

Another form of affiliate marketing that you can get involved with is the Ad Sense program set up by Google. What is this marketing system?

Well, basically, you get paid for allowing Google to display certain advertisements up on your webpage. This gives you the ability to make money from people clicking advertisements on your webpage.

However, you should not try to cheat Google out of money by clicking on your own advertisements. This can get you banned permanently from using Ad Sense.

A great way to make even more cash is to use a website like Mint Articles. Mint Articles is a website much like Associated Content, however, you get to link your Ad Sense account to your articles.

This allows you to market across a much broader spectrum, helping to make you even more money! You would be surprised at the amount of money that you can pull in by using these methods.

Other Forms of Marketing:

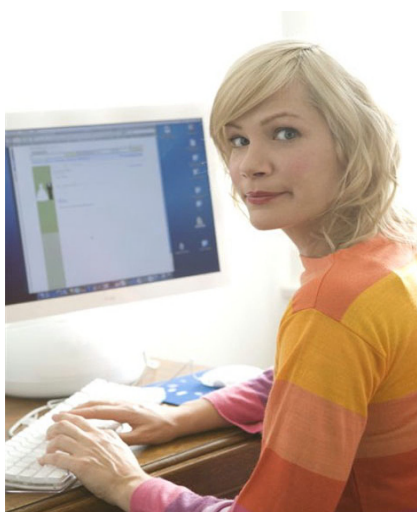

There are various other forms of marketing that aren't necessarily affiliate marketing. Mostly, these will come from marketing endeavors set towards marketing your own product or likewise.

Email marketing campaigns for businesses can also be a way for you to make extra money.

If you are looking into other forms of marketing, one of the best places to find these sorts of jobs will be by checking a variety of different freelance job sites.

These sites definitely provide you with the best general types of work.

Method 5: Blog Posts

You would be surprised at the number of ways you can get paid by working online. Probably one of the most surprising ways of making money online is by getting paid to make blog posts.

Many people wouldn't believe that this is something that could make you money. In fact, even I didn't believe it when I first heard about it. But the truth is, it's a viable way of making money.

First off, the details from one person to another may vary. In some instances, you may get paid for making certain blog posts on your own existing blog, but in many instances, you will be required to work on another blog that the person or persons provides you with.

You are often given a relatively large basis of topics to choose from, but there are usually a few stipulations.

One of the stipulations that are often an issue is linking between posts. These links are used in order to get people to view more and more of the posts, so that both you and the people you are working for make more money as a result.

However, do not work under the illusion that these jobs will pay based on how many people view your posts. Often, you are paid one base amount for your posts, regardless of how many people end up viewing them.

But by consistently providing material which is read by many people, you help to ensure that you do not lose your job and that you may be able to negotiate for higher base pay.

Remember that jobs online often provide you with the freedom to negotiate for pay on a level that you would not normally receive otherwise.

If you show that you are exceptionally skilled, that can help you immensely towards negotiating for higher pay. But also remember that as a result of this work being online, the employer has a much broader range of people to choose from. Finding the balance is definitely the key.

Blog posts can definitely be a great way to help yourself make some extra money.

You can even manage to make a full time income off of it, provided you find do a good job and are able to find providers that are capable and willing to pay for the level of posts that would be required to make a full time income.

Tips to Help You Make The Most Out Of Online Work:

So at this point, you might be saying to yourself, "With all of these methods of making money, why aren't more people using the internet to make their money?"

You might be surprised to know that there are thousands and thousands of people who work online, either for a little extra cash, or to make a full time income. Even a single freelancing site could have thousands of members, both buyers and sellers, looking to make more money.

Many people have just not joined because they feel that it is "too good to be true". Or other people might be worried about identity theft or security issues that might make working online seem scary.

And still others might be wondering, "How do I make sure that they pay me for the work I do?"

Identity Theft:

One of the biggest fears online nowadays seems to be the fear of having your identity stolen by someone else. It seems like it is so easy.

Someone simply takes your Social Security number, then they sign up for credit cards, bank accounts, everything, all under your name, ruining your credit score and building up piles and piles of bills in your name.

But the truth is, identity theft is less common than you might have been led to believe!

Some simple ways to help ensure that you do not have your identity stolen while you are working online is to ensure that you only use your Social Security number on websites that you know and trust.

Many websites that legitimately require your social security number will contain warnings to help you spot if someone is trying to steal your identity.

By paying attention to the warnings posted on these websites, you can help to ensure that you do not have your identity stolen.

Also, never use your social security number when you are on a computer other than your own. If you are using a public computer and you input your social security number, you are at risk.

It is relatively easy for would-be identity thieves to steal your information if you type it into a public computer. So better to be safe than to be sorry!

And while it might seem a bit old fashioned in this day of internet and computers, be sure to never give your social security number out to anyone over the phone. Many people may think that the days of stealing social security numbers over the phone are over, but many people still have their identities stolen by giving out their personal information over the phone.

By keeping these tips in mind, you can help to reduce or even eliminate the likelihood that you will have your identity stolen, helping to ensure that your information is kept safe.

Ensuring Payment:

Probably the second biggest worry behind the potential of having your identity stolen is the thought of working for hours and hours, or even days or weeks, on a project, only to have your provider take your work without providing you payment.

This can be quite frustrating, as in many cases, there is almost nothing you can do once you are ripped off in this matter.

Some freelance websites can help you to some degree, but only if you act quickly, and sometimes not even then.

All in all, many people have had their hard work stolen from them, simply because they did not implement a few smart decisions.

Perhaps one of the most important things to do is to check the reputation of the person you are dealing with. This can be applied to any business or individual, in any situation, both online and off.

If you see many reviews that an individual did not pay for the work provided, then it is probably safer to avoid working with this individual. Also, be wary of individuals with no reviews.

While in many cases, these individuals are just people who have just discovered the online market place, there is a chance that these are individuals seeking to con you out of your money.

The best way to ensure that you do not have all of your hard work taken away from you is to negotiate a payment plan for a project.

This is most important when dealing with large projects, as you do not want to have countless hours and hundreds of dollars stolen from you.

If a project is set to take more than a few days, work out methods of regular communication. By keeping lines of communication open, you can help to ensure that the other individual does not just "disappear".

This also helps by ensuring that you and your provider are clear on the details of the project.

By arranging a payment plan, you are able to ensure that you are able to get the most out of a situation. While no one likes to see any of their work taken without compensation, I'm sure we can all agree that having a few hours worth of work taken is better than to have a few days worth of work taken!

By obtaining payments during various points in the project, you help to ensure that you are able to get your money.

Probably one of the most secure ways to ensure you get your money is to use an escrow service. These services work in such a way as to help ensure that both client and buyer are not ripped off.

The buyer initiates an escrow payment. This payment is shown to the client, but the client cannot take the money. Upon completion of the project, the buyer finishes the escrow payment and the client has the money.

The buyer is unable to cancel the escrow payment, meaning that he or she is unable to get their money back by their own actions. Only the client can cancel the payment.

With division of power over the account, your security, as well as the security of the buyer, is strengthened.

Provide Only the Highest Quality:

As you begin making money (especially in the area of writing articles or blog posts), it can be easy.

Too Good To Be True?

If you are still sitting there thinking that all of this working online must be too good to be true, then I don't blame you.

For years, I didn't believe the talk about how much money there was to be made on the internet. I thought the only way you could make money on the internet was if you were a genius or someone who just happened to find a Beverly Hillbillies lunch box in the attic!

I saw all those same infomercials about people claiming to be able to tell me how to make millions of dollars over the internet from the comfort of my very own home. It all seemed like a hoax!

But while the methods in this manual aren't likely to net you millions of dollars, they can definitely help to provide you with the income you need.

The beauty of it is, the more work you are willing to do, the more money you are able to make. With cash payments, you get to see yourself making money.

No more waiting for payday to get money. You can make money on your own time, in your own way.

There are many more methods of making money than are listed in this manual. In fact, it would take thousands and thousands of pages to manage to list all the possible ways that you can make money online.

You can invest your money online in various markets, which can definitely help you down the road.

And while you aren't likely to become a millionaire by using any of the methods, there is no reason why you shouldn't try!

If you aren't afraid to take a chance and invest in yourself and your abilities, then the sky is the limit for you.

Whatever your set of skills, you can set out to do whatever it is that you want, using the internet as your platform for making money.

Whether you just want to make a few extra dollars or make enough money to be able to stay at home with your children, you will be able to find something for yourself.

Just remember that while you may not become rich by working online, you are definitely giving yourself a new level of freedom that you have never experienced before.

Some freelancers are able to work just a few projects in a month and that is enough to pay their bills!

With the freedom to choose your own hours, without having to drive to work each and every day, you are helping to reclaim the countless hours you may have previously lost, in travel time and in work time!

Working online can help to provide you with higher paying jobs than you might have ever been able to find in your area. And best of all, the internet is quite anonymous!

Many of the people who work on the internet do not have any sort of college degrees, and yet, they make just as much in an hour as a college graduate would!

How is this possible? Buyers on the internet are worried more about your proof of your qualifications, and are willing to accept more than just a degree as proof!

A sample of your writing can take you farther online than you might have been able to manage with a four year degree from a college.

When it comes down to it, the only thing that limits you in your online work is yourself. If you wish to only work a few hours, then you will make money accordingly.

But if you are willing to put in the work necessary to make yourself more money than you would've ever imagined was possible, then you might just be able to do so!

Over the years, I have made more money from working online than I had ever dreamed was possible. I am certainly not rich, but I definitely have obtained a level of freedom that I had never expected was possible.

So if you are still skeptical about whether or not making money online is too good to be true, I challenge you to try some of the methods in this manual.

What have you got to lose? Just by spending a little time checking out and trying these methods, you might just be surprised at what you find. Who knows, you might find yourself writing the next manual on how to make money online!

I hope that the tips that I have shared in this manual help to provide you with a firm ground on which to set out into the world of internet jobs and make yourself the money that you have always wanted.

Remember, with a little creativity and a lot of perseverance, then you will be able to take yourself to levels that you might never have expected yourself to reach. Just trust in yourself and your abilities!

Making Sure You Have the Right Mindset:

Your mindset will be the key to how successful you are with your online marketing and ventures. The truth is this - we all bring about change depending upon our thoughts, our beliefs and what we subconsciously attract to ourselves.

For instance, if you're constantly worried about paying the bills and you make comments to family and friends that you 'just don't have enough money,' you're setting yourself up for that kind of lifestyle.

If you've ever had financial problems before, you will probably remember telling individuals that you were broke, or that you never had enough money to purchase the things you wanted.

You likely dwelled on those things until it threatened to eat you alive inside. Well, here's the thing - those actions; those thoughts and feelings - they bring about reality.

The key to being successful in anything is to believe that you will be successful, to expect to be successful and to wait for that success to come. Of course, you have to take serious steps toward becoming successful - a briefcase full of fame and fortune will not just drop out of the sky and into your lap.

The point is that you must set yourself up for the success. Believe it. There are many exercises you can do which will help you do this. For instance, write down the things that you're thankful for which haven't happened yet.

Take this on with an attitude of knowing that they will happen, and thanking the 'powers that be' before you ever receive these things.

You might be thankful for the car you're going to purchase, the large home you're going to live in or the bank accounts that are going to be stuffed full. You might be thankful that your family is happy and healthy, that you have a great group of friends, etc.

Then, read these things you're thankful for each night before you go to sleep and each day when you wake up. This is just one great way of putting you in a 'winning' frame of mind.

Keep things positive and get your mindset right so that you can experience the kind of success you want to experience.

In Closing:

Anyone can be successful on the internet - anyone. I know that you can do it and you should know by now that you can do it as well.

For the most part, the hardest aspect of becoming successful online is having the drive and determination to do so. If you have this, nothing can stand in your way.

Refuse to let anything, either.

Know that you're going to be successful, take the important steps you need to take in order to ensure that you're successful and be grateful for that success.

Good luck!